HONORARY DEGREE
WYLMA ANNE WATES
DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

South Carolinian Wylma Wates, an archivist of South Carolina's history and dedicated public servant, has mentored a generation of scholars in history and has been instrumental in helping to build the state's archives into one of the nation's best. Her story speaks of a life overwhelmingly devoted to her native state.

She was born at Olanta and educated at Olanta High School and Coker College. She taught in the public schools for two years before pursuing graduate studies at Emory University, earning an M.A. degree in history in 1951. This academic preparation led her to a position with the S.C. Department of Archives and History as an editorial assistant.

She has spent most of her adult life as an historical specialist with the department in a career that spans 38 years (1952-1990). As a senior archivist, she was a mainstay for any scholar, student, or other individual doing research or publication on South Carolina history.

Virtually every scholar who has written on the history of South Carolina and many of those who have written on the history of the South, whether they were young graduate students or senior scholars, has consulted Wylma Wates, and she has guided them to the rich documentary resources in the South Carolina Archives.

She is one of that small army of dedicated archivists without whom scholarship cannot proceed. Although Ms. Wates officially retired from the Department of Archives and History in 1990, she continues to be active in the profession and frequently is consulted on matters of research. She attends conferences and professional meetings and presently is writing a book on the Izard family of South Carolina, which is under contract with the University of Georgia Press.

Through her dedicated services, all who are interested in the history of the South and South Carolina have been made intellectually richer. Hundreds of authors have acknowledged her assistance in their works.

Her numerous books and articles are all important contributions to the history of the Palmetto State. One article exemplifies the virtues that merit the honorary degree. "Meanderings of a Manuscript: General Peter Horry's Collection of Francis Marion Letters" appeared in volume 81 (1980) of the South Carolina Historical Magazine. The article is less than 10 pages, but illustrates the power of the combination of a fine historical mind and long years of archival experience.

The mystery that Wylma Wates solved in this piece is but one example of a long career of helping scholars and scholarship. Dr. Lewis Jones, author of a bibliography on South Carolina history, liked to say that one way to judge a new book in this field was to look at the acknowledgments. If Ms. Wates' name wasn't there, the author probably hadn't done his research well.

At Clemson, she serves as an adjunct professor of history, lecturing periodically to graduate and undergraduate classes. She also has guided graduate students through the complexities of the state's archives and serves as a constant resource for them in Columbia.

She was a participant in one of Clemson University's centennial events, reading a paper at the Fort Hill Conference on Southern Culture held in 1989. She contributed an essay, "Precursor to the Victorian Age: The Concept of Marriage and Family as Revealed in the Correspondence of the Izard Family of South Carolina," to a book that came out of this conference, In Joy and In Sorrow: Women, Family, and Marriage in the Victorian South, 1830-1900, edited by Dr. Carol Bleser of Clemson University and published by Oxford University Press in 1991.

It is indeed a most significant occasion when Clemson University recognizes and honors one of South Carolina's native daughters with the presentation of an honorary doctorate for eminent achievement in scholarship and her genuine service to the scholarship of the greater academic community of South Carolina.

We hold Wylma Wates and her lifetime achievements in the highest esteem, and it is a distinct privilege to honor her with the presentation of the Doctor of Humanities.

The Academic Procession

The Academic procession is composed of the faculty, staff, officers, Trustees, and honored guests of the University. Faculty enter by college and each college is preceded by its marshal, a senior faculty member, with the college baton, described under University Regalia.

Collegiate faculty follow their marshal in order of academic rank wearing academic costumes of medieval origin. Those who have received their degrees from institutions outside the United States wear costumes specified by the awarding institutions.

The academic costumes of faculty whose degrees are from United States' institutions are specified by a uniform code maintained by the American Council on Education. Caps are black and are usually mortar boards with tassels. Doctors of Philosophy wear gold tassels usually of metallic thread; other degrees wear black or discipline colors.

The bachelor's gown is simple and black with long, pointed sleeves. Masters' gowns, also black, are longer than bachelors. Older gowns have sleeves that terminate at the elbow while those since 1960 have sleeves extended to the wrist. Doctors' gowns are full, with bell-like sleeves. The front is marked by velvet panels and the sleeves are marked by three velvet bars. While most gowns are black with black velvet, one variation is to replace black velvet with velvet in the discipline color. A second variation is a colored gown usually of the university's colors.

All hoods specify the level of degree, the type of discipline studied and the awarding institution. First, degree level is signified by the size of the hood with bachelors' smallest, masters' larger, and doctors' quite large and of a different shape. Clemson does not award hoods to bachelors. The width of the velvet trim also conveys the degree. Secondly, the degree is indicated by the color of the trim edging the hood to form the throat over the gown. The most frequently seen is dark blue, which designates the doctor of philosophy (Ph.D.) degree. Finally, the color of the hood's lining specifies the awarding institution. The colors are displayed in combinations that are drawn from heraldry. Notice that the Clemson University hood is lined with purple through which is an orange chevron (a "V"). Although many combinations are duplicated by dozens of institutions, Clemson is presently the only institution with that registered combination.

The officers, trustees, and honored guests wear academic, ecclesiastical, or military regalia as set forth by their professions. They are preceded by the University Marshal. Clad in a gown of office in gold and purple, the marshal wears no hood and bears the University mace. At the ceremony's close, the faculty do not exit as a part of the recessional but are dismissed, along with students and guests, when the marshal leaves the coliseum.

The University Regalia

The University mace is the symbolic representation of the whole of Clemson University and must be present at any convocation where the University, through its delegated members, is acting officially. At any official convocation such as commencement, the University Marshal, carrying the mace, precedes the President into the assembly. The mace rests before the President's chair or speaker's stand throughout the ceremony, and its removal from the assembly at the close of a convocation is symbolic of the official withdrawal of the University and, thus, the close of the proceedings.

The decorative design of Clemson's mace is derived from the ceremonial maces carried by heads of state and church in the Middle Ages. Its basic clublike shape, however, is much more ancient, probably going back to man's prehistory. It is made of walnut wood and silver, with the seal of the University in gold and the University colors represented by insets of cornelian (orange) and amethyst (purple). Amethyst is also the state stone of South Carolina.

The Presidential chain and seal is symbolic of the authority vested in the office of president by the governing body of the University. Only the University President may wear it, and while wearing it he speaks for the whole body of the institution. Clemson's chain and seal are made of silver and gold, and cornelian and amethyst.

The batons of the college marshals also descend from medieval "staves of office" which were carried by the senior members of departments of state or church. They display the seal of the University and the symbolic color of the discipline to which the college belongs. Clemson's batons are made of walnut wood and silver with the various disciplines inset with enamel.

The University regalia were designed and executed by Mr. Robert Ebendorf. Mr. Ebendorf is twice winner of the Tiffany Award and one of the most acclaimed goldsmiths of our era. The enamel plaques for the batons were executed by the late Professor Marshall C. Bell, and the lapidary work was executed by the late Mr. C. C. Wilson of Clemson University.

Coat of Arms

Designed by Clemson University graphic artist, Connie Floyd, the coat of arms represents the historic three-fold mission of this institution: teaching, research and service.

Pictured on the cover, the coat of arms is divided into three parts. The bottom contains a series of open books representing the concept of teaching as the basis of the land-grant university. The white of the books and the purple of the background designate the teaching mission of the University as it is achieved through undergraduate and graduate instruction.

The upper portion of the shield contains two sets of calipers and wheat sheaves illustrating the measurement system for research, as well as Clemson's tradition in agriculture and Extension. The three symbols — the books, calipers and wheat sheaves — also represent the humanities, technology and science.

The entire shield is joined by a small orange center shield bearing a white tiger mask symbolizing the abiding spirit of Clemson.

The crest is a gold palmetto tree, which emphasizes Thomas Green Clemson's desire that Clemson become "the people's university" for South Carolinians. It rises from a band of purple, orange, white and gold. The outer pair of colors, purple and gold, are the official colors of the University; the inner pair, orange and white, are Clemson's student colors.

They have maintained a minimum GPR overall of 3.40. They appear in the line of march with an honors medallion on an orange and purple ribbon.

Historical Statement

Clemson University is named for Thomas Green Clemson (1807-1888), who left the bulk of his estate to the State of South Carolina for the founding of the institution.

Thomas Clemson was born in Philadelphia in 1807 and educated at the Royal School of Mines in Paris (1828-1832). His early profession was that of a mining engineer; however, circumstances diverted his interests into politics and the life of a southern planter, and he soon became an enthusiastic advocate of scientific agriculture. He had a career as a diplomat (charge d'affairs to Belgium, 1844-1852) and served as the first Superintendent of Agricultural Affairs in Washington (1860). As a scientist he published numerous articles in the fields of mining, chemistry and agriculture. His varied activities included his assistance in the founding of the Maryland Agricultural College, his support of the Morrill Act, his leadership in South Carolina after the Civil War, and his part in founding Clemson University.

Thomas Clemson was the son-in-law of South Carolina's John C. Calhoun, a political figure of national importance during the first half of the nineteenth century. Mr. Calhoun's home, Fort Hill, is preserved on the Clemson Campus as a national shrine.

The academic program at Clemson College began in 1893 with an enrollment of 446. The first "college prospectus" announced only two four-year curricula, supplemented by two two-year preparatory courses. Today the University has five major academic units. These are the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Life Sciences, the College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities, the College of Engineering and Science, the College of Professional Studies, and the Graduate School.

The institution is an accredited member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools; various curricula are accredited by the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business, Computing Sciences Accreditation Board, Council on Accreditations of the National Recreation and Park Association, National Architectural Accrediting Board, National Association of State Directors of Teacher Education and Certification, National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, National League for Nursing, and Society of American Foresters.

Clemson is a land-grant institution. As such, it is engaged not only in its primary academic program, but does extensive research at the main campus and at five agricultural experiment stations located in the State. The University is also heavily committed to a varied program of public service, including the work of agricultural extension which has professional personnel located in each of the State's counties.

CLEMSON ALMA MATER

A. C. Corcoran, '19

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
Where the Tigers play;

Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might,

That the Tiger's roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

We will dream of great conquests,
For our past is grand,

And her sons have fought and conquered
Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur
O'er the hill and dale.

Here the Tiger lair is nestling
Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood,
For we work and strive;

And our alma mater reigneth
Ever in our lives.

Note: Candidates appearing in this program are not certified graduates. Likewise, academic honors designations are based upon performance prior to final grades. Both certification of graduation and honors designations must come from the Registrar of the University.

First Aid A First Aid Station is located at Portal O.

Evacuation System Littlejohn Coliseum is equipped with a fire alarm evacuation system. In the event of activation, as noted by sustained horns and strobe lights, please proceed to the closest available exit. Remain outside the building until fire officials deem the building safe to re-enter.

No Smoking Smoking is prohibited in the seating area of Littlejohn Coliseum. Cigarette receptacles are provided around the outer concourse.
